CALGARY, ALBERTA, MARCH 1, 2006--Calgary-based WorldWeb.com Travel Guide, published by World Web Technologies Inc., just got better with the release today of its newest site design.

WorldWeb.com is an up-to-date source of online travel information containing more than 200,000 pages of listings, photos, articles and maps for travel destinations around the world. WorldWeb.com's online guides are available for Canada, the USA, the UK, Ireland, France, Italy, Australia, New Zealand, Bermuda and the Caribbean. In addition to an on-site staff who enter business information into the guides and write articles on destinations, WorldWeb.com accepts business listings from the public.

The new-look WorldWeb.com was released in conjunction with new photo gallery software that allows photographers from around the world to upload their images for site visitors to purchase, and follows a December release of new interactive visitor maps using Google Inc.'s Maps API.

WorldWeb.com, started in 1994, is a service offered by World Web Technologies Inc., a privately-held Internet marketing and software company for the tourism industry.
